A Happy Ending

Ann and Susan went shopping yesterday. They went to a department store. There were a lot of people in the store because there was a big sale.

Ann found a nice pair of shoes. Susan bought a lovely red coat. Then they saw a small boy near the door. He was crying. “What’s wrong?” they asked him. “I can’t find my mom,” he said. “What’s your name?” Susan asked the boy. “My name’s Jimmy Brown,” he answered. So Susan said, “OK, Jimmy. Let’s go and find your mother.” Then Susan and Ann took him to the information desk.

A few minutes later, a woman came to the information desk. When Jimmy saw her, he ran to her. He was very glad to see her. The woman spoke to Ann and Susan. “My name’s Mrs. Brown,” she said. “I’m Jimmy’s mother. Thank you so much.” Ann and Susan felt very happy.

Art on the Street

Last summer Hiroshi stayed with his friend Carlos in Los Angeles for two weeks. His first day there was a beautiful sunny day, so he and Carlos decided to go to the beach. After they put on their swimsuits* and were ready to go, Carlos told Hiroshi that they were going to see some famous art on the way to the beach. Hiroshi was surprised and said, “We’re going to a museum? But we’re wearing our swimsuits!” Carlos said, “Oh, we’re not going to a museum. I’m going to show you some art on the street.”

They left Carlos’s house and started walking down the street toward the beach. On their way, they passed by a high school and saw a big painting on one wall of the school. It was a beautiful picture of different plants and animals in the sea. Carlos told Hiroshi that a professional artist and students from the high school painted it together.

They kept walking and saw more pictures on the walls of different buildings. Carlos said that these large paintings on walls are called murals.* Murals have been a popular kind of art in Mexico for a long time, and in the 1960s and 1970s, many young artists in Los Angeles began painting them, too. In Los Angeles there are now thousands of murals on schools, office buildings, and even churches.

“Wow!” said Hiroshi, “It’s great to be able to see art on the street. We can even wear our swimsuits!” “That’s right,” Carlos laughed. “Now let’s go to the beach!”

*swimsuit : 水着

*mural : 壁に描かれた絵 [壁画]

- 1 They decided to meet a famous artist.
- 2 They decided to go to the beach.
- 3 They decided to see art in a museum.
- 4 They decided to buy some swimsuits.

(32) Why was Hiroshi surprised?

- 1 Because there were a lot of high school students on Carlos's street.
- 2 Because it was a beautiful sunny day.
- 3 Because Carlos forgot to wear his swimsuit.
- 4 Because he thought they were going to a museum in their swimsuits.

(33) Where did Carlos and Hiroshi see a picture of sea life?

- 1 At a church.
- 2 At the beach.
- 3 On a wall of a high school.
- 4 On a wall in Carlos's house.

(34) When did people start painting murals in Los Angeles?

- 1 A thousand years ago.
- 2 During the 1960s and 1970s.
- 3 When many young artists moved to Mexico.
- 4 When murals became popular in Mexico.

(35) What did Hiroshi think after he saw the murals?

- 1 He thought it was great to paint murals in Mexico.
- 2 He thought it was great to see art in museums.
- 3 He thought it was great to be able to enjoy art on the street.
- 4 He thought it was great to be able to buy swimsuits at the beach.
