About the Second-Stage Test (for those who passed the first-stage test)

Note: Please make sure you check your test dates in advance.

1) Test Date: Test date A: July7 (Sun); Test date B: July 14 (Sun)

- Your test date for the second-stage test will be determined by the Eiken Foundation of Japan based on your application method and desired test site. You will be notified of your test date, test site, and appointed time on your second-stage test admission ticket (upper-right section of first-stage score report). Please detach this ticket and bring it with you to the test site.
- No matter the circumstances, your test date, test site, and appointed time will be as printed on the second-stage test admission ticket. Changes cannot be made.
- For details on how test dates are determined, please check the Eiken website.
- For double examinations (taking tests of two different grades in succession), the second-stage test dates for each grade will be as printed on the corresponding second-stage test admission ticket. Please note that you may be required to take the second-stage tests for different grades on different days.
- Your age is calculated based on the date of birth entered when applying (if you write a different date of birth on the answer sheet of the first-stage test, it will not be used).
- If there was a mistake with your application details, your test date may not follow exactly the information stated on the Eiken website.
- For examinees taking the second-stage test at some special test sites (overseas/isolated islands) or with testing accommodations for persons with disabilities, the test will be held on test date A.

2) Test Location (You may select your desired location.)

• Find the number of your desired second-stage test location from the chart below and fill in the ovals designated for the location number on your answer sheet (or application form for examinees taking the test at a group test site).

Notice

7

 In the case of group applications, examinees' private information is acquired by the Eiken Foundation of Japan from the person who filed the group application. Acquired private information will be used for implementing the smooth operation of English certification tests, providing services to those who pass the tests, such as issuing certificates, or for statistical purposes. Some operations may be outsourced. Private information will not be used for other purposes without agreement from examinees.

• The test results for a group application will normally be posted to the person who filed the application. Please note that the person who filed the application will know the examinees' information and results.

• An examinee is not permitted to take multiple tests of the same grade in one test period. If such a case occurs, both tests will be considered invalid.
