4	I agree with the opinion that modern life is very stressful. I have two reasons for feeling this way. First, people have become too busy with their jobs these days, and workers are expected to spend long hours at their companies. Because of this, they have little free time with their families. Second, social-networking technology has made modern life more stressful. People can now be contacted by others at any time, and this makes them feel that they have little privacy. These are the two reasons why I think modern life has become too stressful.
