From: Megan White <megan.white-0211@w.g-college.net>
 To: Alan Jones <alan.jones-0427@w.g-college.net>
 Date: December 9
 Subject: A film event

Hi Alan,

This is Megan White. I am writing to remind you about the film event I told you about last month. At this special event, our college film club will show the short films each member has made this semester. I am not sure when my film will be shown, but the event itself will start at 5 p.m. this Friday at City House Theater.

The film I made is a short documentary. It shows the beautiful scenes of daily life in a local community and the nature around it. I filmed people doing everyday things, like working at a market or spending time in a city park. I also included scenes of trees, rivers, and wildlife in the countryside. There were no words in the film, but I tried to tell a message through the images and sounds.

This is a paid event, but I can give you a free ticket if you want to come. Also, if you have friends who are interested, I can save two more seats for free. In that case, please send me their names by Wednesday. The theater is huge, so you can still attend even without a reservation. But in that case, you will need to pay for your ticket at the door.

Thank you,
 Megan White

 - 4 may invite as many friends as possible for free tickets.

Days Without Meat

Meatless Monday is a movement to avoid eating meat one day a week. It was first proposed in the early 2000s, and since then, the idea has gained support from many businesses and famous people, such as chefs. Today, Meatless Monday has spread to over forty countries, and it continues to influence the eating habits of many people. Some schools in countries like the United States and the United Kingdom have introduced it into their school lunch menus.

There were several reasons why the movement started. One of the main reasons was to help people get healthier. An American who came up with the idea learned that people in the United States took in about 15 percent more fat than they should, which could lead to serious health problems. He believed that avoiding meat just one day a week could reduce the extra fat taken in. This idea was the beginning of Meatless Monday.

Around the same time, more people started to think about how their food choices affect the environment. They learned that a lot of greenhouse gases were created by making meat products. They also realized that a large amount of water was necessary for raising animals like cows and pigs on farms. Gradually, more and more people understood these problems and started to see Meatless Monday as a simple way to help the environment.

However, not everyone agrees with the idea of Meatless Monday. For example, some people complain that children are not allowed to eat meat in their school lunches on certain days. They believe children and their parents should be free to choose what they eat. Also, a study showed that more food waste could be produced when students had no meat choices. In the future, these opinions may need to be considered in order to make Meatless Monday more widely accepted.

(26)

What is true about Meatless Monday?

- 1 It helps increase the number of people eating only vegetables.
- 2 It helps change the way people eat in many countries.
- 3 It refers to a holiday to appreciate food in forty countries.
- 4 It refers to meals eaten at American schools every day.

(27)

An American man thought of the idea of Meatless Monday because

- 1 he wanted to prove that avoiding meat would cause health problems.
- 2 he found that 15 percent of Americans did not eat enough vegetables.
- 3 he discovered that people in America had too much fat in their diet.
- 4 he believed people could get enough fat by eating meat once a week.

(28)

Why did more people start supporting Meatless Monday?

- 1 They thought eating meat could reduce water pollution.
- 2 They learned that meat production created little greenhouse gas.
- 3 They believed it was one of the easiest ways to protect animals.
- 4 They realized it could help solve some environmental problems.

(29)

Why are some people against Meatless Monday at schools?

- 1 They think children need to eat meat every day to grow up healthy.
- 2 They think children should be allowed to decide their own food.
- 3 They think students will end up eating unhealthy food instead.
- 4 They think students may waste more food if meat is the only choice.
