4	I think that it is good for university students to have part-time jobs. First, university students can prepare for the real world by having part-time jobs. The work experience that they get from this will benefit them after they graduate and begin their careers. Second, with a part-time job they can earn extra money. They can use this money to help their parents pay for their university fees. In summary, I think that having a part-time job can be a valuable thing for university students.
