4	I agree that newspapers today have too many articles about famous peoples' private lives. To begin, I think that this lowers the quality of information that people read. Newspapers should be writing about important news from around the world, not about unimportant things. Furthermore, famous people should be allowed to have privacy like everyone else. Just because someone is well-known does not mean that people have the right to know everything about his or her private life. Therefore, it is for these two reasons that I believe newspapers have too many articles about famous people.
