4	I do not think more parents will make their children learn a musical instrument in the future. Firstly, it generally costs a lot of money to buy a musical instrument. Parents also have to pay the cost of music lessons every month. Secondly, practicing music is often loud, which can bother people living nearby. Such noises, especially at night, can cause big trouble between neighbors in areas where houses and apartments are close to one another. For these reasons, I do not believe that more parents will make their children learn a musical instrument.
