4	I agree with the opinion that Japan should try to make foreigners more interested in Japanese culture. First, by getting foreign people to be more interested in Japanese culture, the government can increase the sales of Japanese products such as comic books and animated films. This growth in these industries will create a lot of jobs, which will help improve the economy. Second, it is important for Japan's reputation to have more foreign people interested in Japanese culture. An increase in the number of these people will help Japan become more trusted and respected in the international community. For these reasons, I agree with this opinion.
