4	I think it will have a good effect on society if people can take videos with their smartphones anytime and anywhere. First, people can make videos and put them online to share their opinions with others. By doing so, they can express themselves on various social issues effectively. Second, I think taking videos with smartphones will help prevent crime. People would be afraid to commit crimes if they think they might be recorded by smartphone cameras. In conclusion, I think it will be good for society if people can take videos with their smartphones.
