4	I think these kinds of products will become more popular in the future. One reason is that people who cannot eat normal meat can enjoy meat made from plants in a variety of dishes. Advances in technology have made it possible for these products to taste similar to real meat. Another reason is that producing meat such as beef and pork needs a large amount of food and water for animals. It is said that this is leading to a shortage of food and water for humans. Therefore, I think these products will become more popular in the future.
