4	I think such TV news programs will become more common in the future. First, artificial voices can be convenient for companies when making TV news programs. People do not always have to come to the studio to record. Second, the use of artificial voices would reduce the number of mistakes made during the recording process. Artificial voices can read the news at the appropriate speed without making reading mistakes. Therefore, I think TV news programs that use artificial voices will become more common in the future.
