4	Some students study history by reading comic books. This is because they can be motivated to continue reading thanks to illustrations and easily memorize the details through interesting stories. However, comic books may leave out some details and use information that may not have happened to make the story more dramatic.
5	I think such organizations will increase in the future. First, these organizations can help people live healthy lives. There are many people who need more food, so distributing free food to them can help improve their health. Second, the work of these organizations is good for the environment. By collecting food that can still be eaten, these organizations can contribute to reducing food waste. Therefore, I think organizations that collect food and give it to people for free will increase in the future.
