5	I think a long lunch break will become popular in Japan. A long lunch break makes it easier to enjoy conversation with friends and increases communication during the meal. I have two questions. How many people were on the tour? What was the total cost of the tour per person?
6	Yes, families should make time to play sports together. First, it promotes physical health. For example, playing soccer or basketball can help children and adults stay active. Second, it strengthens family bonds. Shared activities like hiking or cycling create memorable experiences and improve communication. Therefore, playing sports together benefits both health and family relationships.
