4	Online classes have become more popular around the world. Students can attend classes regardless of where they live and study at their own pace. However, some students may find it difficult to stay motivated without direct attention from others and to concentrate on their studies when classes are interrupted by technical issues.
5	I agree with this opinion. First, people can gain deeper knowledge and useful skills. When people work at the same company for many years, they become experienced and can do their jobs more effectively. Second, people can feel secure. If they stay at one company for a long time, they will naturally get to know more colleagues. As a result, it becomes easier for them to discuss work-related issues or ask their colleagues for help. Therefore, I think it is a good thing to work at the same company until retirement.
