4	Some young people want to live alone. Living alone allows them to develop their independence and responsibility. However, it can have a negative impact on their mental health, especially if it is their first time.
5	Yes, I think that they should. Students can learn about different countries' cultures. When people understand other cultures, the world becomes a better place. Also, when students go to a different country, they will have the chance to talk to the people there. This is a good way for students to improve their language skills.
