4	Locally produced foods have become popular among various groups of people. They are fresh because they travel only short distances, and buying them helps support local agriculture. However, only a limited variety can be offered because small farms grow only a few common crops, and a steady supply cannot be guaranteed due to bad weather.
5	I think it is a good idea. First, by renting a bicycle, people do not need to pay the cost of buying one. People who do not use a bicycle for commuting to work or school but want to use one occasionally can save money. Second, using a bicycle is better for the environment. Bicycles do not emit harmful gases such as carbon dioxide, so they help to lower air pollution and keep cities cleaner. Therefore, I think it is a good idea for people to rent bicycles for transportation.
