4	People often discuss the use of mobile phones by students at school. Mobile phones are useful because students can easily contact someone in an emergency. However, students may lose focus during self-study or in class.
5	Yes, I think students should learn how to dance at school. First, dancing makes muscles stronger and helps the body move more easily. It allows students to perform better in other physical activities too. Second, performing dance in front of others helps students build confidence. They will learn to express themselves without fear of being judged.
