5	I think more nature parks will have a rule that does not allow cars. More people want to protect the plants and animals in nature parks. I have two questions about the hotel. When was it built? How many floors did it have?
6	Yes, I think a museum is a good place for children to learn about history. First, museums show real things from the past, such as old tools and paintings. Children can see these objects and learn about them. Second, helpful staff can explain history well. They help children understand history better and make them more interested in history.
