4	Drones are now used to help people during serious disasters. Drones can reach remote areas quickly and search large areas from the sky. However, they cannot fly for a long time because they must return to get new batteries, and bad weather such as strong winds and heavy rain can stop them from flying safely.
5	I think this is a good idea. First, mascot characters can help local tourism. These characters clearly show the unique features of the area, attract more people's interest, and lead to an increase in the number of tourists visiting the area. Second, these characters can improve the local economy. When these characters become popular, goods featuring them sell well and bring money into their communities. Therefore, I think it is a good idea for local areas in Japan to create their own mascot characters.
