4	Inviting guest speakers is becoming popular in schools. This is useful because students can learn about things not taught in class. However, if the talk takes too long, students have less time for important classes.
5	Yes, I think so. First, supporting any dreams helps children develop confidence. Even when dreams seem hard to realize, support from parents gives children the courage to keep trying. Second, support from parents builds a strong sense of trust. As a result, children are more likely to talk freely with their parents about their worries and progress.
